A Place to Belong

Father Basil Jellicoe's words remain at the heart of everything we do. From his pioneering work in London's slum Communities to the UK-wide neighbourhoods we nurture today, his vision endures — that homes are more than bricks and mortar; they are the foundations of hope, belonging, and opportunity.

The images within this book celebrate that enduring spirit. Captured across generations and regions, they tell the story of how we continue to build and support Communities that dream, grow, and thrive. Each photograph reflects part of our shared journey — compassion turned into action, and places shaped by People who care.

As we look back on our journey, we are reminded — as Father Jellicoe knew — that “housing is never enough.”

A photographic journey through the heart of PfP

Inspired by Father Basil Jellicoe's vision that "housing is never enough," Rooted in Community celebrates over a century of People coming together to create Places where everyone belongs.
